THE TRAMPS' DORMITORY.

Citizens passing through the city parks since the ommencement of the hot season have been annoyed a great deal by the presence and conduct of crowds of "bummers," who injest the benches, lounge and sleep on them and outrage propriety in various ways.

Occasionally an honest laboring man is to be found among them, who unfortunately becomes obnoxious on account of his company.

The park atherities determined to check the nuisance, and on Saturday instructed their officers to clear the parks of all vagrants. In carrying out the order Sergeant Floch and Officer McGonigle, with a squad of men, made a raid Saturday night square parks and captured forty prisoners, who were wrapped in slumber. They were all arraigned before

The following remarkable story is related in a special despatch to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, June special despatch to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, June 15:—

In the latter part of April, 1875, Embry Cannon, his son William and two sephews, got on a big spree in Rockwell, Texas, and created great disturisance in the town until a late hour of the nigot. Sheriff Alexander C. Starks was on intimate terms with the Cannons and endeavored to persuade them to desist from their riot ous proceedings, but was unauccessful. He then warned them that if they did not stop disturbing the peace he would be obliged to lock them up. This only made them worse and the whole party assaulted the Sueriff and beat and cut him very severely. During the metric the Sheriff drew his revolver and snapped it several times, but none of the chambers exploded. The party scattered, however, and Starks, procuring a better weapon, followed the Cannons with the literation of arresting them. He lound them in a billiard saloon, and was again set upon by the whole party, and, defending himself, snot and killed William Cannon. This ended that hamped le relation between Starks was notified that himbry Cannon was trying to hire some desperado to assassinate him. This became so evident that Starks offered his farm for sale, with the intention of moving to some other place where ne would oe more secure. In September, 1876, a stranger appeared in Rockwell, singularly dressed and armed with a doube-barrelled shougus and several revolvers. He pretended to want to only a larm, and was referred to Starks as having one for sale. He called on Starks, and, after a short conversation, both started for the farm, Starks going in opposition to the earnest currentled should be admitted to the same was George W. Garner. Is October following the murder of Starks, and Embry Cannon was insignator of the crime, but next morning nis dead body was found in the woods with a sload of buckshot in his head. The murders field, It was subsequently learned that his name was George W. Garner. murger, and sentenced to be hanged on the 15th of June.

To-day, after his conviction, he made a confession that Embry Cannon hired him to kill Starks for $500 cash, a note for $125 and a team of horses. Last Toesony evening Mrs. Garner was permitted to onter the jail to remain with her husband until his execution. This morning on opening Garner's cell the Sheriff found Mrs. Garner dead and her husband almost lifeless. A physician was sent for, but before ne arrived Garner died. Both left letters. In the one written by Mrs. Garner she said she purchased morphine at Dalias two weeks ago, and took it into the jail in her mouth. A question then arose as to whence there there was enough to kill both, and which of them should take the largest portion of it. Mrs. Garner evidently took enough to kill ber, but there were marks about her neck which showed she had also been strangled. Garner also took some of the poison, but when tough this morning he had cotton stuffed in his nostrifs, and bandkerchief crammed down his toroat and a wire, the bail of a bucket in his cell, twisted around his neck, evidently not being satisfied that they had taken enough morphine to kill, they finished the job by strangulation. Mrs. Garner's letter present the possibility of the presument of the presument

BLOOD STAINED CRIMINALS. A FARMER AND HIS THREE SONS GUILTY OF FOURTEEN MUSDERS.

Judge Wandell, at Jefferson Market Court, yesterday. As they stood ranged in front of the magnitrate, chain, all manner of garments, they presented a curious spectacle. Each in turn was questioned by the Justica, with a view to discriminate between the inherent vagabond and the casual unfortunate. All of them strenuously maintained that they were merely resting after a hard day's labor, but the task of distinguishing was not very difficult. Out of the forty arrested thrity wore sent to the care of the Commissioners of Charities and Correction, to be disposed of as that body might think best. [From the Albany (Mo.) Ledger.] But few of our oldest citizens do not know George Brown, who settled on what is now known as the Pringle farm, two and a half miles west of town, in bout the year 1850. George Brown, during the time Timothy Golden, a resident of the slums of Mulberry street, saw and admired James B. Pitts' twenty dollar sliver watch on Saturday night last, and his admiration got the better of his discretion. For knocking Pitts down and stealing the envied timepiece he was taken to the Tombs Police Court yesterday, where Justice Murray committed him in default of $2,000 bail, and sent Pitts to the House of Deteution.

"A pretty rough deal, this," observed the prisoner, George Watson, as he accompanied an officer from the Tombs Police Court yesterday to the prison below. Mr. Watson was a dealer in a faro bank which was raided by the police. He did not have bondsmen for $500 security at hand, and in default he was locked up. Patrick Craig, of No. 585 Second avenue, has been in the Fifty-seventh Street Court, to answer the charge of violating the Excise lawa. Yesterday morning his bartender was arrested at five minutes past twelve, and was brought to Court. Mr. Craig followed with and was prought to Court. Mr. Craig followed with a number of witnesses, who testified that other dealers sold liquor under the same conditions as he, but they were left alone, while he was subjected to continual persecution. The Justice said he believed there was unwarranted persecution in the matter and discharged the bartender.

Last November Mrs. Hattie A. Egla, of West Thirtysecond street, lost a dismond ring, valued at $650 which was stolen from her room by a boy named Frank A. George, who was employed to run errands and do chores around the house. The detec-haveshill, Mass., by Captein Webber, of that place.

Detectives Woolsey and Kerns took him to Jefferson Market Court yesterday morning and asked that he be remanded till to-day, that the complainant might have time to appear. Judge Wandell set down the examination for two e-clock this afternoon.

REVENGE WITH AN AXE.

[From the Chicago Tribune.] KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 14, 1877.

A horrible murder was committed on Monday near Burlington, Kan. Two young men named G. S. Cook and S. M. Hedges, former partners in business, with and S. M. Hedges, former partners in ousness, with three other persons, occupied the same room over night. Hedges arose in the night, procured an axe and with it crushed in the skull of his bedieflow. He admitted the killing, and justified the act by saying Cook had stolen his money. He has been arrested. Cook was born in Platte county, Mo.

A REVOLTING CRIME. [From the Milwaukee (Wis.) Sentinel.]

MADISON, June 13, 1877.
To-day Chief of Police Beck arrested W. W. Dennett. student at the State University, whose home is in Prairie du Sac, for the murder of the infant whose body was found in the river near Waiker's Point bridge in Milwaukee, with a cord tightly tied around its neck and bricks tied around the waist, on Tuesday of last and bricks tied around the waist, on Tuesday of last week, which, it was thought at the time by some to have been the body of the child of people on some sailing vessel or of poor people, who adopted this pian to save the expenses of burial. It seems, however, that Mr. Beck had suspicious or some slight clew which he has followed successfully, as Dennett confesses the crime. He says he was the father of the child, which was born at stevens Point. Dennett was in Milwaukee and left it with a German woman one night early in May. Afterward he called for it, saying be had found a cheaper place. He says he strangled the child and threw the body into the river.

THE OKA INDIANS.

IS THERE A CONSPIRACY OF THE PRIESTS AGAINST THEM? - THEIR INNOCENCE PROB-

The troubles at Oka have reached another phase and a very sad one to the iriends of the Indiana. Instead of suffering like Christian martyrs as they have done hitherto, the Indiaus have taken to arms; and, which ornamented one of the leveliest points on the Ottawa, is burned down. Whether they are guilty or not, there is no doubt that the Indians will be accused of burning the church and adjoining buildings. The charge is a most serious as well as a most natural one, of burning the church and adjoining buildings. The charge is a most serious as well as a most natural one, seeing the wonder has been expressed all along that Indians, lawless as they are generally considered, could resist taking the law into their own hands. The eyidence of appearances, however, goes some distance to protect the Indians from the charge. The building was first seep on fire at about four o'clock, when it was broad davright. The Presbytére, which is on a point entirely lenced off from the village, was nearly consumed before the church caught. The latter was next the Indian portion of the village, and the wind was blowing from the church toward the Presbytére. The interence is, therefore, tenable that the Indians did not commit the deed. They would not, it is thought, wait till broad daylight to do it and then take unnecessary risk of exposure to do the work badly. The priests of the seminary knew that the Indians were armed and excited, and, having mee to protect them, it seems strange that they should allow an Indian to get so near as to do mischief. One circumstance in connection with this new phase of the question deserves notice. Several Indians were arrested during the past winter, and there was no attempt made at a rescue by their courades. Why, then, was this brigade of thirty or more men, headed by ten Provincial police from Quebec, engaged to rush upon them in their beds at midnight, and, like the destroying angel of Egypt, take away one out of every family, except those protected by the cross? Another fact is that those who engaged the police must have expected resistance. This expectation could not have arisen from the previous conduct of the Indians, and the clear inference is that the act was one to caose resistance. Another fact is that stinough the Indians knew that the force was coming, they were found sleeping quicily in their beds. It is a good sign of the innocence of the Indians of any intended offence that even twenty-four hours after the arreats they were not aware what thei

Mr. George R. Bell, of St. Paul, who lot two years has occupied a civil position in the ranks of the Canadian mounted police—a body of several hundred men who are employed to watch the interests and protect the people in Western Manitoba—reached Si. Paul on Saturday last on a brief visit. Mr. Bell, in company with Major Waish and a small force of men, visite the camp of Sitting Bull about two weeks ago, the camp being situated near the boundary line about dred and forty miles from Fort. Benton. The bloody old redskin was accompanied in his exile by sixty or righty lodges of his followers, though when he crossed the line his force was much larger, probably three hundred of his braves having deserted him, some of Pringle farm, two and a half miles west of town, in about the year 1850. George Brown, during the time he lived in this county, was a respected citizen and member of the Christian Church. He had three sons—George, desse and Josials—who were about men when they let here, which took place in the year 1856 or thereabout From here they removed to Texas, in which State they have resided since. They have lately been arreated upon a complaint filed against them by Samuel Borris, who married a daughter of George Brown, Sr.

From the facts developed since the arrest of Brown, his sons, Borris and others we are unable to name, composed one of the most daring and murderous creatives. The complaint charges them with fourteen murders of the darkest and most appalling nature. The exposure of the Browns by their confederate and relative was brought about as follows—It some intal Jesse was the chief of the clan, and gave orders which were as binding as an oath, and whathever be commanded must be done. They were organized under the presence of putting down lawlessness and crime. Jesse was married, and he and his wife had a failing out, and they both went out of highing, which resulted maily in their separation. The woman (Jesse's wild family in their separation. The woman idease) will be a second moderate the prevence of putting down lawlessness and crime. Jesse was married, and be calse his single protecting the party of the many of the party of the class, and protecting the party of the many of the party of the class, and protecting the party of the many of the party whom returned to their old hunting grounds in Montana and Dakota and others taking up their about at

A CATHOLIC MISSION TO THE DAKOTA CHIEF.

[From the Evansville (Ind.) Journal.] The Right Rev. Albert Martin, of the Catholic Church, who tells me that he lived for ten years or more in your city, left here some days ago with a party of friendly Indians for Sitting Bull's camp, to urge him, in the name of the Church, to come in and peaceably in the name of the Church, to come in and peaceably accept the terms of the government. As he sat on his pony in his long sable robe, one of his attendants carrying a white his with a worked crimson cross, one was forcibly reminded of the stories of those days when such a cavacade carried only the avenging and converting sword, but never the olive branch. No one has any hopes of the success of Father Martin's mission, which he is allowed to undertake at his own request.

DIAZ INVADES TEXAS

PEDRO WINKLER AND HIS ADHERENTS CHASED

ACROSS THE BORDER. [From the San Antonio Express.] For lo! these many weeks have we been treasuring up starting headlines against the day to come when there would be a terrible battle fought in Europe, and war in all its terrible realities would be commenced; but now we experience a sensational stinging in the rear, but now we experience a sensational stinging in the rear, as it were, and for real wars, instead of rumors of wars, turn from the Orient to the Cocident—or, in other words, from the Danube to the Rio Grande. A foreign nation has invaded our territory and lought a battle on our soil. We can't stand it!

A day or two ag Stand it!

A day or two ag Search Winkler and his adherents got into a light with the Diaz troops, the first result of which was that Pedro Winkler got the grand bounce across the Rio Grande. The Diaz troops, 400 in number, followed their enemy to the American side, and overtook them at Devil's River, where a battle was lought, in which many were slain, and Pedro's band was put to flight. Three of Winkler's party stampeded to San Felipe, where they made a meagire report of the affair to Licutenant Kelley, American commandant at that point, who transmitted the news here.

General Ord has gone west, and if we are not mistaken he will put some toe cheaks on the knobs of those bothesded Mexicans before he returns.

CAUCASIAN AND MONGOLIAN.

HOW THE CELESTIALS FLOURISH REVOLVERS AT LOS ANGELES. [From the Los Angeles Herald.]

Yesterday afternoon, about one o'clock, a shooting affray took place in the yard of a Chinese wash house near the corner of Sixth and Flower streets, between white men and Chinamen, in which two of the latter were wounded. From Officer Bill, who, with Chief were wounded. From Officer Hill, who, with Chief Gerkins, arrested the parties to the affray, we learn that the row originated in some boys lighting a fire is the adjoining yard, the smoke and dust from which dirtied the cothes which the Chinamen has hung up to dry. The Celestials remonstrated rather more forcibly, it is stated, than was necessary, when a resort to pistols was had. An Chung, who was shot in the cheek, the ball passing through and being takes out of his neck, is zeriously wounded, and Ah Soon was shot through the leg. The two wounded Chinamen and two others belonging to the same house were arrested and brought to the same house were arrested and brought to the lockup, where they remained until bail in $500 each was intrinshed to the parties to the shooting, and who claims that his action was required in self-defence, surrendered himself, but was reloased on $500 bail to appear to-day. Another white man, arrested as a participant, was also released on his own recognizance.
